

GC park director at home in Illinois

By BILL MILLIGAN
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Steve Kessel has come home to Illinois. Kessel, 27, was recreation supervisor for the park district in Muscatine, Iowa, since 1980. He graduated from Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville in 1979.

HE AND HIS WIFE, Patti, come from Flora, where they graduated from high school in 1979. They have two children, Kami, 9 years old, and Ian, 3.

He was born in Belleville. "My dad was in the Air Force. We traveled around a lot, but Flora is home," he said.

"We liked Muscatine, but we wanted to move back home to Illinois," Kessel said.

GRANITE CITY seems like home to Kessel. He worked at Earl's Sporting Goods as a stockboy while attending SIUE.

As Granite City Park District director, Kessel will administer the district's $382,809 annual budget. There are three administrative personnel and office staff members along with 10 maintenance people on the district's payroll.

Kessel said his first duty is to get acquainted with everyone. He also wants to become familiar with the park system.

School strike still on

With the Madison teacher strike still not settled Friday afternoon, it was decided to delay the scheduled American Education Week observance.

Efforts were being made to arrange additional negotiations this weekend. Bargaining teams from the school district and the teachers' federation met for seven hours Wednesday night.

Supt. of Schools John Palchiff said Friday afternoon that American Education Week was to be celebrated at all Madison schools on Tuesday, Nov. 19, but due to the strike the activities are being rescheduled.

Tentatively, school administrators have set Monday, Nov. 25, for the postponed open house events, with parents invited to visit the school their child attends from 2 to 4 p.m. or from 6 to 8 p.m., the superintendent added.

In the event that the strike is not settled by Nov. 25, the observance will be rescheduled again.

Roof still leaking, but campus survives tax loss

By BILL MILLIGAN
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Ceilings at the Granite City Campus of Belleville Area College are dotted with water marks and empty panels. Water stands on the flat roof and drains over the spouting onto the side of the 13-year-old building.

The roof leaks so badly that the college's data processing equipment must be covered with plastic every night.

BRICKS ON THE NORTH side of the building are so saturated with water they won't hold a coat of paint. Low areas of the campus parking lot are flooded and unusable.

Heating and air-conditioning units at the school are broken down.

More than 50 percent of the funds raised by a proposed 14-cent tax rate limit increase would have gone toward repairing and improving the facility, according to GCC President Don Kassing. The referendum's resounding defeat Nov. 5 put those plans back on square one.

Yet, Kassing wants everyone to know there is life after a referendum defeat.

"THE REFERENDUM was controversial. We knew it (the election) would be difficult," Kassing said.

"Our problems are still here. We need to find ways to deal with them."

Kassing said BAC trustees had no plans to ask voters for another tax increase at the present time. Instead, future curriculum offerings may be placed on hold and building maintenance plans may need to be done a section at a time.

"We should be entering more high-tech fields like robotics," Kassing said. "This referendum defeat will slow down the training in those fields. Our curriculum needs to reflect the needs of the times. We'll need to reallocate our resources."

IRONICALLY, the referendum defeat comes at a time when enrollment in the college's day and night classes are higher than ever.

Between spring of 1983 and spring of 1985, 4,500 students used the campus, according to Kassing. During the 1986 school year, Kassing estimates 3,400 students will take classes at the Granite City Campus.

There has been a 30 percent increase in day student attendance. The student-teacher ratio is 19-1, much lower than the 27-1 average recommended by the National Education Association.

"This is a very affordable way to start a college education," Kassing said.

A LOT OF OUR students are here to develop a skill, rather than graduate. They may take only one course for personal enrichment."

A community college must be conscious of how to serve public needs in training and education, according to Kassing. One of the most important roles is in re-educating laborers whose jobs may become obsolete because of high-technology manufacturing techniques.

There is a shift away from manufacturing jobs and into service-related fields, according to Kassing. Campuses like the one in Granite City can help people make the change.

"I think we (community colleges) are one of the most exciting things happening here in the St. Louis area," Kassing said. "We can train people for new jobs that are opening up in the area."

FIGURES RELEASED by the Regional Commerce and Growth Association, based on the 1979 census, show only 18 percent of the population in Granite City has any type of college education.

The figures show 12 percent of the Madison population and eight percent of the people of Venice have college experience.

In Belleville, the figure is 35 percent, Kassing said.

"YOU DIDN'T NEED to go to college 5-6 years ago in order to get a good job," Kassing said.

"There is a tremendous natural demand for what we are doing," he said.

Voters in the Quad-City area obviously agree with Kassing. In the eight-county district, most of the referendum's favorable vote came from Granite City and surrounding communities in southern Madison County.

THE TAX PROPOSAL lost 9-1 district-wide, and 4-1 in Granite City. More than 35 percent of the voters in Madison and Venice cast favorable votes.

"We appreciated the support here," Kassing said. "We discovered we have a visibility problem. More people know who we are now."

"We want them to visit us and find out what we're doing," he said.

Students boo drugs, alcohol

VENICE — No kind of drugs or liquor will be allowed and students can't get in if they have liquor on their breath. If they won't pay attention, we'll call their parents or the police."

The statement was not made by a school administrator or parent, but came from Venice High School senior class president Karen Mosby.

ADDRESSING the Venice Board of Education Tuesday, Mosby was proposing that school-related functions, especially From Night, be "substance-free."

"We want to stop drugs and liquor in our school. We are not saying we have them, but we feel nobody has anything to do after the prom, for instance, which could lead to drinking.

"So we want to plan something, such as an all-night party after the prom, to help our students stay out of trouble," Karen said.

THE SENIOR CLASS president and Yuri Lynn Foster, vice president, accompanied by Lena Rush, faculty sponsor, were reporting their experiences at Project Graduation, a substance-free state conference held in Springfield.

The program encourages teens to participate in drug-free celebrations with the support of their schools and communities.

Thirty schools were represented and those attending were asked to act as a catalyst to initiate the program in their own community, Rush explained.

A SCHOOL DISTRICT may attend the state seminar only once, with the present seniors passing along information and the expertise they gained to students who will be seniors in 1986-87, she said.

Rush said the sponsoring agencies included Lieutenant Governor George Ryan's office, Secretary of State Jim Edgar's office, the Department of Alcoholism and Substance Abuse, and the Department of State Police.

Also participating as sponsors were the Department of Public Health, Department of Transportation and Illinois State Board of Education.

WITH LITTLE hesitation, Yuri Foster introduced another possible aspect of teenage behavior on prom night — unwanted pregnancies.

Suburban Journals help the Dream Factory

A charity that helps terminally ill children realize their dream is being aided by the Suburban Journals and the Bahama Cruise Lines.

Jack Solberger of Granite City, director of the Dream Factory, said Friday the help being offered his group is needed.

"I was greatly surprised and tickled at the same time," he said.

Suburban Newspapers will sponsor a booth for the Dream Factory at Travel Expo '85, a program that will be held Nov. 22, 23 and 24 in the Omni Hotel at Union Station.

A $2,300 cruise trip is to be given, and donations aiding the Dream Factory will be accepted at the booth.

The trip is being sponsored by Bahama Cruise Lines of Key West, Fla. The recipient will spend eight days and seven nights aboard the

Sunday focus

S.S. Bermuda Star. The ship will depart from New Orleans and will visit Key West, and two locations in Mexico, Cozumel and Cancun.

Solberger said whoever is chosen for the cruise will be announced on the night of Nov. 24.

The St. Louis Chapter of the Dream Factory was started in September 1983. Since its inception, 302 dreams have been granted to terminally ill children.

Solberger said he first learned of the donation at the last monthly meeting of the charity group. He said many travel agents have become interested in the organization since they attended the meeting.

"We've gotten a lot of travel agents to volunteer," he said. "And that's what we really need, especially from the east side."

Solberger said a representative of Circle Tours-St. Louis, is making arrangements to send 40 Dream Factory children to Silver Dollar City next spring.

"A lot of good things have come out of our last meeting," he said.

Foreign policy is tough to handle

WASHINGTON — How can you keep track of U.S. foreign policy when players keep changing sides? Take U.S.-Philippine relations.

For many years, the State Department defended the corrupt, dictatorial regime of President Ferdinand Marcos on grounds that we needed a staunch anti-communist ally in the western Pacific. American diplomats were willing to turn a blind eye to Marcos's violations of human rights to ensure that the U.S. naval bases in the Philippines were secure.

But now the Reagan administration has turned on Marcos, criticizing his domestic policies and urging him to make reforms. Ultraconservative apologists for Marcos are understandably upset. After all, it was only four years ago that Vice President George Bush stood up at a banquet in Manila and offered a toast in which he praised Marcos for "adherence to democratic principles and to the democratic processes," and added rhapsodically: "We stand with you."

Even more peculiar is the emergence of Sen. John Melcher, a liberal Montana Democrat, as the man who appears to be Marcos' best friend in Washington. In a recent letter to Marcos — which of course found its way into the pro-Marcos Philippine press — Melcher praised the dictatorial president for "curtailing some of the country's economic problems and the progress that is easily visible in affirmation of the principles of democracy, the freedom of expression and assembly."

What's going on here, anyhow?

On Melcher's part, he's not going on. The senator is furious at State Department efforts to clean up the Marcos regime's act in one area: the importation of U.S. wheat. The diplomats want the job taken out of the hands of the Philippine government's National Food Authority and turned over to private firms.

The Marcos administration is resisting this move, possibly because the food authority is run by a presidential crony. It is precisely the rampant corruption in the wheat deals, of course, that has led the State Department to demand the change.

Melcher denies that he's defending a dictator. He does question why the State Department insists in starting its belated reforms on the food front, which will only hurt American farmers. In fact, Manila has threatened to buy its wheat from Australia, which would cut U.S. farmers out completely.

But the State Department is apparently suffering from a case of "Iranian Syndrome." It's afraid that if the United States becomes too closely identified with Marcos, and if it did with the Shah of Iran, whoever succeeds Marcos may be anti-American as any ayatollah. And that would cost us our naval bases in the Philippines.

man, woman-for-woman, the best fighting unit in the world is thought to be the Israeli army. But military experts believe it has declined sharply in quality in the last couple of years. They blame the fiasco of the Lebanon invasion and subsequent withdrawal, which eroded Israeli soldiers' traditional self-confidence, plus the drastic military budget cuts necessitated by the deteriorating Israeli economy. In contrast, Israel's most belligerent neighbor, Syria, has improved its army, thanks to massive help from the Soviet Union.

NEW ORIENTAL DELICACY: China has a rat problem — there are an estimated 4 billion of the vermin running around the country. So, the China Daily has come up with a way to reduce the population. The newspaper recently published the following recipe: "Catch one rat. Scald with steam and plunge into cold water to peel off the fur. Carefully gut the bald rat and soak in brine, ginger and salt with weights. After drying for a day, cook in a sealed pot with rice, bean and a spoon of sesame oil until the aroma permeates the whole kitchen. Then eat it."

SECRET LESSONS: The FBI reviewed the security arrangements that were used at the Los Angeles Olympic Games last year and has identified nine "lessons" learned that can be applied to future events. But the G-Men don't want anyone to know what the lessons were. The FBI "After-Action Report for the Games of the XXIIIrd Olympiad, Los Angeles 1984" is stamped "secret."

WATCH ON THE PENTAGON: The United States has a naval base on Diego Garcia, a remote island in the Indian Ocean, and duty on this pile of rock is humdrum at best. To ease the boredom for Americans stationed there, the Pentagon fills in fresh milk from a dairy in the Philippines. The cost of transportation: more than $1 million a year.

The Pentagon is slowly sinking into the Potomac mud. The fill dirt brought in when the huge structure was built during World War II has become saturated, and some bodes the corridors have sunk 4 inches under the weight of brass and paper. Repairmen are pumping in concrete and fill dirt to keep the building from sinking out of sight.

'If you can read this, thank a teacher'

"If you can read this, thank a teacher."

Teachers come in all ages, sizes, and walks of life and can be parents, grandparents, brothers, sisters, a friend, or a trained school teacher. Each has a part to play in the teaching of reading and in helping children succeed in learning to read.

Any child who can read and write easily and well has a big head start on success in school, and in later life as well. Reading skills are necessary to master all other subjects in school and are the most desired by employers.

Reading and writing provide a lifelong source of inexpensive pleasure that is always available.

Readers raise readers. The children of book-reading families are much more likely to read books themselves than children of non-readers.

Ninety-three percent of children who read for pleasure reported their parents were book readers, also. Besides telling students reading is important, modeling reading behavior is important.

By reading aloud to your children! Your child will learn early that practically anything he or she might want to know has been written in a book and that it can probably be found in the home or library. You may begin to introduce your child to books at the age of three or four months by holding your child and reading to him/her or letting the child look at the pictures in a magazine.

Your child will find pleasure in being held, listening to your voice, and seeing the colorful pictures, thus promoting a good, warm inner feeling and stimulating the senses of hearing, sight and touch.

Set a time aside for reading to your child. Before bedtime or before naptime are good, but other times work as well. Make all experiences with books happy ones.

Do not feel that you must "teach" your child to read. Your child will learn quite a bit simply by being read to.

Don't be surprised if your child wants to have the same book read over and over. The high interest and repetition will be good.

Babies love books with big, bright pictures of familiar objects. One- and two-year-olds love to see pictures and hear the name of every picture.

Two- and three-year-olds love nursery rhymes, word play, and rhymes. Three-, four- and five-year-olds love stories of fantasy and real life. Both are important to expand horizons.

Help the child feel wanted and loved. Encourage self-reliance. Teach the child to listen attentively and follow directions. Talk to your child from birth, softly, gently and lovingly.

Don't use baby talk. Answer questions. Teach awareness of things. Help your child to develop self-expression.

Give the child correct names for things. Read to your child regularly. Build up the background of experiences.

Research has found that reading to children has a definite impact on the amount of reading the youngsters do. Nine out of 10 children who were heavy readers were read to by their parents.

The moral of the data seems to be that parents and families can help their children become readers by demonstrating that reading is important and by reading to their children.

Civil defense directorship is not just honorary position; requires dedication, hard work

To the Editor:

I was rather surprised to see that the director of civil defense was being replaced. The only reason I was concerned was that he will be replaced by an individual without prior experience in the field of civil defense.

This position is a critical area within the government. As the recent earthquake in Mexico pointed out, being untrained to handle a major disaster could cause needless delays and deaths.

I had the opportunity to talk at length with Harold Mayfield a few years back and found the man reasonably ready in the area of civil defense. That is an area of great importance to this position.

Mr. Mayfield had obviously taken the time, and I suspect a great deal of time, to read the current literature available in the field of civil defense. The textbooks are not the 10- or 20-page pamphlets you get from the federal government. These books encompass hundreds of pages each.

Whoever replaces Mr. Mayfield had better realize that this is not an honorary title. The seriousness with which this individual takes his job could directly affect the lives of all of us.

This new individual must have the knowledge of how to organize relief efforts in case of a disaster in Granite City. He had better have some concept of what to do when a tornado strikes a school at 1 p.m. on a school day. Will he know how to get federal help? How will he control the parents' parents' swarming over the school, not to mention the sightseers?

Does this new individual have any type of plan on what to do if we had an earthquake like Mexico City? Where will he get drinking water for 40,000 people? I hope he knows.

Has this individual read any of the masses of volumes on nuclear war? It may surprise most of the readers, but Granite City will not go in the first blast; neither will St. Louis.

We will, however, get a heavy dose of radiation from the ICBM (intercontinental ballistic missile) silos that cover Missouri.

Many will survive locally, and they will demand food and protection from fallout. The knowledge of the civil defense director will be critical at those times.

I have never met the proposed replacement for Harold Mayfield, but I do know enough about politics to know that favors can override qualifications.

I hope the mayor is careful in his selection, or that the new director has a lot of time to read.

Smokeout called hazardous to those who smoke

Warning: This reporter has determined that the Great American Smokeout may be hazardous to those who smoke.

This Thursday, millions of smokers will be subjected to an extreme amount of peer pressure. They will be TOLD to stop their habit.

They will listen to the age old lies of:

"Those things really stink."

"Kissing someone who smokes is like licking an ashtray."

"You're putting another nail in your coffin every time you light one of those."

"I don't smoke and I don't want to breathe your second-hand smoke."

How non-smokers can get away with these types of insults and harassments, I'll never know.

Would you tell a person with bad breath that their breath makes you sick to your stomach?

Susan Welch

Would you tell someone with green teeth that kissing them is like licking mold out of a shower stall?

Would you tell an obese person that they're putting another nail in their coffin everytime they eat a cream puff?

Would you tell a person with a body odor problem that you bathe daily and you'd rather not have the sweet odor in the room?

A person with manners would not say any of those things to a stranger — at least they wouldn't put it in those words. But a person would say those things to a stranger who is smoking.

I know, you may argue that non-smokers are just trying to help smokers. They can't just let them kill themselves.

As a former smoker I can tell you that I knew everything there was to know about the dangers of smoking before I took my first puff.

So comments made to me were taken not only as insults to my intelligence, but as just plain rude.

If you ask a smoker why he started to smoke, he probably couldn't give you a good answer.

If he didn't have a good reason for starting to smoke, do you think a good reason like "it'll lengthen your life by 10 years, will make him stop?"

Non-smokers have got to learn one thing about smokers. They will only stop smoking when they WANT to stop smoking.

All the arguing and all the cute cliché's in the world will not make the difference.

I quit smoking at 11 a.m. last Sunday. I quit because I decided to quit.

This Thursday I will not harass smokers. I will be too busy fighting withdrawal symptoms and trying not to drive my fellow employees crazy, which they think I've been doing all week.

I'll sit quietly at my desk, biting my nails, chomping my gum, and slurping quarts of soda.

I'll be minding my own business. I'll be minding my manners.

Warning: This reporter has determined that lead to nail biting, gum chomping and soda slurping. It does not lead to irritability or sudden losses of sanity, except with people who are unsympathetic.

Some work particularly hard to get place in newspaper

Some persons try especially hard to get their club's name in the paper, as evident in a recent conversation:

"Edgar, what'll we do now?" Edna asked. "The paper doesn't want pictures of the mayor signing proclamations. And our annual Salute to the Woolly Worm is just around the corner!"

"That's a poser," Edgar scratched.

"Why don't they want them pictures?"

"Well," she rolled her eyes, "they said it was boring because the mayor signs proclamations every week. Can I help it if the anti-Molers, Community Fine Folks, and all the rest want prelatious pictures."

Jack Ventimiglia

"Can't say you kept. But I will say I get tarred of openin the paper every week and seeing the pictures of the Woolly Worm in the paper."

Such and such signing somethin' about this n' that. Why, the fella's hand is prob'ly plum wore out."

"Won't, neither. It's good for the image."

"But what do we do now? The paper is against proclamation pictures. They said all the pictures are the same — that no one would know if they ran the same picture of the mayor every time and just changed what was under it."

"Well, taration, Edna. Didn't the paper give you any idea-er of how to get somethin' about Salute to the Woolly Worm in the paper?"

"Oh, they said somethin' silly, like write up a brief description of the event and arrange something that might be interesting to photograph such as putting a woolly worm on a child's nose."

"Wal, cha think of that?"

"Discarded it. Dumb idea. What I'm thinking, though, is maybe we could get pictures of the mayor buying the first ticket to our Woolly Worm Race. They'd have to take a picture of that."

"But won't other folks start doing the same? Why, purty soon the paper will get tarred of takin them photos too."

"Let the other clubs worry about that."

City coordinator optimistic about downtown

By BILL MILLIGAN
Staff writer
GRANITE CITY — Al Orbals thinks retail business is like fishing. When word gets out the fish are biting, everyone on the lake comes to test the waters.

"When people find out you're catching fish at a certain spot, it can get pretty crowded," he said. Orbals, 33, was named city coordinator Sept. 17 and immediately began work on revitalizing the downtown retail business district.

During the last three years, Orbals worked a kind of retail magic in the declining Cherokee shopping area in south St. Louis. Cherokee began losing business in the early 1980s with the advent of large shopping centers and malls.

BY THE TIME St. Louis hired Orbals in 1982, Cherokee had become a collage of empty storefronts and junk shops. His job was to clean it up.

"It was nothing like Granite City," Orbals said. "The quality of retail shops was bad. Tenancy was low. The city (St. Louis) had come in and spent a bunch of money redoing sidewalks and planting trees."

"That doesn't cut it," he said. THE FIRST THING he did was to increase sales of merchants with the use of quarterly promotions.

Retailers shared advertising costs for newspaper inserts. The promotions began to attract business back to the area.

Once business volume began to pick up, Orbals began to revitalize the area's physical image.

"THE AREA HAD BEEN in a decline for 20 years," he said. "It got to the point that merchants, property owners and shoppers lacked faith in the area."

It's pretty hard to convince someone like that to spend $5,000 on a new facade," he said. "We first had to change that pessimism."

After a couple of successful promotions, merchants began to get enthused about the project, but Orbals wanted to "make noise" outside the Cherokee district.

"We started cleaning up," he said. THE CLEAN-UP consisted of taking down some of the corrugated metal facades that were erected during the '60s and '70s. It meant taking down projecting signs.

The city backed the plan with codified design standards, sign standards, and permitted uses for retail properties in the area. Orbals calls it "sympathetic renovation."

"We always looked better," he said. "When people came for our parade in April, they talked about the changes they saw. When they came back for our sidewalk sale in July, we looked even better."

"A lot of times I relate retail business to fishing. When people find out they're biting at a certain spot, they all go there."

WHEN SALES BEGAN to pick up, merchants from outside the area began showing interest in the district again. National firms like the Payless Shoe Source bought stores and area retailers began renovating their buildings.

Orbals estimates the revitalization effort attracted over $2 million in outside retail development like the Payless store, Walgreen Drugs and Meier's-Closer.

"Property values began to climb; rents were up," he said. Orbals wasn't always a city developer. He graduated from Webster University in 1974 with a bachelor's degree in psychology. He taught at Bishop DuBourg and St. Mary's high schools.

WHILE AT DUBOURG, he bought a two-family flat in St. Louis' Shaw neighborhood for $8,200 and renovated it. Ten years later, the work was complete and he sold the house for $78,000.

It was during that time he became interested in urban development. He entered a master's degree program on urban development at St. Louis University.

ORTBALLS: We can do more...

In the spring of 1982, Orbals accepted directorship of the Shaw Neighborhood School, a federally-funded, continuing-education-enrichment program.

HE SET UP HUNDREDS of programs in facilities around the neighborhood. He ran exercise classes in old school buildings and bartending classes at neighborhood bars.

"It was up to me to conceive the programs and implement them," Orbals said. "It was like running a small business. I had to make sure the programs were what people wanted. I had to keep them happy."

From March 1978 until 1982, the program grew from 400 to 1,400 participants.

During that time, he put his master's program on "hold." He eventually earned his master's at St. Louis U. in 1980 and began looking for jobs in urban development.

UPON LEARNING of the Cherokee job, he thought it was just the type of challenge he needed. The City of St. Louis agreed and hired him in the spring of 1982.

Orbals sees a lot of similarities between the job he did on Cherokee Street and the one he's been hired for in Granite City.

The one big difference is in availability of federal funds.

"Every day, you pick up the papers and see federal assistance for projects like this diminishing," Orbals said. "We need to act quickly, before federal dollars dry up."

HE BELIEVES Granite City has several things in its favor. According to 1979 census figures, he said, there are 70,000 people in the general area; he pegged average income at $22,000.

Rehab studies reviewed

By BILL MILLIGAN
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Four studies preceded Al Orbals' appointment as city coordinator. The studies of the central business district were conducted over the last 20 years.

The first was commissioned in 1966, and the second was by a private development firm, Harland Bartholomew and Associates of St. Louis, in 1970.

IN 1978, Mayor Paul Schuler put together a citizens' committee to study the city's commercial needs. In 1984, Gates, Albers and Veitch made another study.

The most recent study suggested construction of a shopping center on land bordered by Madison and Grand avenues and 19th and 20th Streets. It also suggested construction of a motel between 20th and 21st streets, with housing and office space surrounding it.

"I don't agree with that at all," Orbals said. "19th Street has always been the focal point of the downtown shopping district. I think it should stay that way."

Granite City loses more than $58 million in retail business annually to shopping areas in Fairview Heights and St. Louis, according to his estimates.

"We can do more than we have been doing to retain that business," he said.

ORTBALLS WILL MEET with area business and professional people Monday evening to map a strategy for the central business district's rebound. After four studies in a span of 20

"That plan would end up killing the downtown section," he said.

THE 1986 STUDY called for construction of a downtown civic center. The 1970 study called for turning Niedringhaus Avenue into a mall between Edison Avenue and Cleveland Boulevard, and 19th Street into a partial mall.

Schuler's citizens' group suggested, among other things, sign standards and more parking.

Orbals is still gathering information.

Helping with that chore is the Economic Development Council, a group of 13 business and professional leaders willing to meet once a week to plan and implement a new revitalization strategy.

MEMBERS of the council are Nick Huniak, James Keenan, Dewey Mellon, Dennis Orsey, Sharon Perjak, Eric Robertson, Avery Schermer, Jim Schmiedake, Paul Sodko, George Sykes, Dr. Al Trijan, Bob Weis and Leo Wolf.

"We plan to act quickly to revitalize downtown," Orbals said.

years, some people are skeptical about Orbals' chances of turning things around.

Orbals experienced the same thing at Cherokee.

"MY NECK is on the line here," he told a meeting of the downtown merchants committee.

"Four years from now, if this thing hasn't turned around, I'll be looking for another line of work." Orbals expects the fishing to get pretty good in Granite City during the next few years.

Festival of Giving will help needy

By DONNA KIMBRO
Staff writer

Brownie and Girl Scouts in the Quad-City area are busy finalizing plans for the annual Festival of Giving project.

The social and community oriented program is designed to help area needy families preceding Christmas. Each troop will provide canned foods, tree ornaments, and wrapped gifts that will be boxed and taken to selected agencies for delivery to Quad-City families.

Neighborhood Four will host its event on Sunday, Nov. 24, at the Granite City Township Hall, all participating in co-op games, a friendship circle and a talent presentation. Each troop will sing special songs as it deposits food items into the baskets.

The next festival is planned for Dec. 8 from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Madison Recreation Center for members of Neighborhood One.

All food baskets assembled there will be given to charitable organizations for Madison and Venice area residents. As the scouts arrive, they will hang a handmade ornament on a Christmas tree and will take part in an activity center. The activity center will feature booths where they can frost and decorate cookies, play carnival games and visit with Santa Claus. At the conclusion, all will sing Christmas carols.

Neighborhood Five will host its festival on Dec. 12 at the Granite City Township Hall beginning at 6:30 p.m.

The Eagles Kitchen Band will entertain as well as the troop members. All food baskets are to be donated to Project Help, Protestant Welfare and the Salvation Army.

The final event will be Dec. 20 for members of Neighborhood Two at the Granite City Township Hall from 7 to 9 p.m.

To open the festive event the troops will present entertainment including songs, skits and comedy routines.

Handmade ornaments, prepared by Neighborhood Two scouts during troop meetings, will be sent to St. Elizabeth Medical Center for use by the Meals on Wheels project.

Cheese distributed this week

Officials in Chouteau and Nameoki townships will give out surplus government commodities this week.

Commodities will include processed cheese, rice, butter, dry milk and flour.

THE RICE, DRY MILK and flour are all in short supply and persons will be asked to take their choice of one.

All products will be given out on a first-come, first-served basis by ticket number received at the door.

To be eligible to receive commodities, persons must be residents of the township where they are getting the cheese.

THEY MUST BE the head of a household or the spouse, have their Social Security number, and sign an affidavit that their total household income is within the guidelines.

Recipients are to bring some proof of residency other than a driver's license.

An unpaid utility bill or a voter's registration card is adequate, officials said.

MONTHLY INCOME guidelines are as follows: one-person family, $547; two in the family, $735; three persons, $923; four persons, $1,110; five persons, $1,300; six persons, $1,485; seven persons, $1,673; eight persons, $1,860; and $188 for each additional member of the household.

Chouteau Township will begin distribution at 8:30 a.m. Tuesday, Nov. 19, at the Chouteau Township Social Center, 697a N. Thorngate Drive, Mitchell.

Nameoki Township will give out commodities at 7:30 a.m. Friday, Nov. 22, at the township hall, 4250 Highway 162.

Party harmony found among Democrats

Hundreds of Democratic Party leaders have praised Illinois Attorney General Neil F. Hartigan for his decision to seek re-election instead of running for governor. He traveled across the state last week to thank his backers for their support, and encouraged them to vote for Adlai Stevenson for governor.

"In the interest of unity, I withdraw my candidacy for governor and will instead seek re-election as attorney general," Hartigan said at a series of news conferences in Chicago, Marion, Cahokia, Springfield and Moline.

"There comes a time when we must put the good of the state and its people above personal consideration. I pledge my total support to Adlai Stevenson."

Joining Hartigan and Stevenson at the Chicago news conference were Mayor Harold Washington, Cook County Chairman Edward Vrdolyak, U.S. Senator Paul Simon, State Comptroller Roland Harris, House Speaker Mike Madigan, State Democratic Chairman Cal Sutker, Cook County Assessor Tom Hynes and Chicago Treasurer Cecil Partee.

"Neil is a fine public servant," Stevenson said. "He put the welfare of the state and the party above his own. He will win re-election for attorney general. He also is an old friend who will have my enthusiastic support in this election as he has in those past."

Referring to the Democratic elite that assembled, Stevenson quipped, "As for everyone here, this has to be the greatest assemblage of humanity since the founding of the Holy Roman Empire, and if I am not mistaken they are all here to acknowledge the courageous act of Neil Hartigan."

The attorney general said, "I thank the thousands of people in every section of this state for their friendship, hard work and support. This outpouring means a great deal to me."

Burris, who had announced for attorney general, immediately endorsed Hartigan and said he would seek re-election as comptroller.

Hartigan decided to withdraw from the governor's race because "a divisive primary election would hinder the chances of defeating the Republican incumbent in the general election."

"The single biggest threat to defeating Gov. Thompson is a divided Democratic Party," he said. The price of a primary fight would be too high.

"It would drain our financial resources. It would cause a rift and division in our party. Ultimately, in order to win in March, I would have to wage a campaign more critical of my friend Adlai than of Jim Thompson."

"During my first term as attorney general, I have seen the office improve its services to the people and increase the return of taxpayers' dollars. I will campaign on this record, and I look forward to making the record even stronger during the second term."

Venice School Board adopts levy

By VALERIE EVENDEN
Staff writer

VENICE — A $326,500 tax levy was adopted by the Board of Education after a public hearing last week. The levy for collection in 1986 is $41,000 less than the $367,500 adopted last November.

Superintendent of Schools Robert N. Vickers predicted the $3.81 school tax rate per $100 assessed evaluation will remain about the same. The actual rate will be determined next spring when the levy is applied to the new assessment total.

VENICE'S TOTAL real estate assessment currently is $12 million, after dropping by $1.3 million in 1984 and by $1.5 million in the previous tax year.

Amounts of the new levy in the individual funds are:

Education — $400,000; operations, building and maintenance — $57,000; transportation — $20,000; working cash fund — $7,000;

municipal retirement — $25,000; fire prevention and safety — $7,000; tort immunity purposes — $2,000; special education — $6,000; and workmen's compensation — $2,000.

A LETTER of retirement from custodian Fred Griffin, effective Nov. 30, and a letter of resignation from Eddie Salmond, also a member of the custodial staff, were accepted by the board.

Ten applications for employment with District 3 already are on file, Vickers said.

"There are a lot of people out there looking for a job, so we should have no problem," the administrator added.

UNTIL THE BOARD makes a decision on hiring new custodial personnel, probably at its next meeting, substitutes will be used to do the work.

Members decided to cancel the board meeting set for Nov. 28 (Thanksgiving Day) and to meet only once next month, on Dec. 12.

Streeting widening ahead

BORING WORK. Only partial excavation is required to insert a new main gas line under sidewalks along the north side of East 23rd Street, which is scheduled to be widened early next year. Illinois Power employee Rick Frith, at right, operating the boring machine in the 2200 block Tuesday, said the process will be continued along the thoroughfare to Nameoki Road. Two blocks east of them on E. 23rds, Illinois-American Water Co. workers were replacing a fire hydrant due to its proximity to the roadway.

Creative parenting

CLASSMATES at St. Elizabeth Medical Center are Julie A. Mead of Granite City and her son, Ross Alan, nestled securely in her arms as they listen to Laura Bernal, SEMC clinical instructor. A parenting program was developed to help people adjust to the demands of parenthood: attending are persons with newborns, those expecting a baby, plus grandparents and others who assist in caring for a new family member. Two two-hour evening classes are held in the prenatal classroom at McKinley School, focusing on basic childhood illnesses, infant CPR (cardiopulmonary resuscitation), car and home safety, and milestones of growth and development in early childhood, particularly the first year of life. There is no fee for the instruction but registration is required. The next series is set for January, according to a spokesman on the Obstetrics Floor, 798-3040.

Village again blocks plat for Georgetown

By RACHEL NEWSOME

PONTOON BEACH — The fifth denial of a Georgetown Drive residential area re-subdivided plat was issued by the Pontoon Beach Village Board Tuesday, despite the legal opinion of Keith Jensen, village attorney.

The board said the plat is incompatible with the area, contains improper zoning, and fails to meet frontage requirements.

THE AREA IS BEING subdivided after the initial sale of property without the consent of all the owners, board members contended. "Earlier proposals of the subdivision divided the street at the frontage line into segments less than 30 feet, or less than the width of the buildings proposed for the lots," according to a letter from Jensen.

"The current proposition suggests four building lots and the right-of-way is approximately 15 feet back from the curb line. The issue is whether a street is measured at the curb line or the public right-of-way to determine whether or not the requirements of Chapter 29.59 (lineage requirements) are met."

CHECKING COURT opinions, Jensen found the terms "street" and

"right-of-way" are sometimes interchangeable.

John Hale, village engineer, indicated the street would extend all the way through the right-of-way and the area dedicated to the public. "Thus, in a strict technical compliance sense, the ordinances can be read to exclude the proposed subdivision."

"However, in the engineering sense and on the advice of Hale, common term and usage of the term 'street' would include the right-of-way," Jensen said. "Therefore, the proposed subdivision would be legal according to the ordinance of the Village of Pontoon Beach."

IN OTHER BUSINESS, the board approved the rezoning of a lot at 4001 Pontoon Road for B-2 general business zoning instead of its former B-1 community business zoning.

The request for rezoning was by Ronnie Martin, owner of a Sunoco gasoline service station at 3940 Pontoon Road. Martin plans to place an auto repair shop at the 4001 Pontoon location.

The board approved purchasing about 30 street signs for $614, including a village sign and 1,700 boxes of Christmas candy for area residents at a cost of $765.

Leader's store strike settled

GRANITE CITY — A strike at Leader's Department Store, 19th and State streets, ended Thursday after two weeks of picketing.

Irv Strauss, owner of the store, said the six employees voted unanimously Thursday night to accept a new three-year contract.

"The main issue in the strike was a wage increase — basically that's what was offered," he said.

Strauss did not disclose the amount of increase given to the workers.

The business volume at the department store had dropped greatly due to the strike, Strauss said.

"Hopefully, the business will pick up to where it left off," he said. "We want to get back to serving Granite City people for Christmas."

Teenage girls hurt by disease

Anorexia and bulimia can be life-threatening diseases, most often affecting teenage girls.

Anorexia is characterized by self-starvation. Bulimia is characterized by eating large amounts of food in a short time. The bulimic then panics at the fear of weight gain and may self-induce vomiting, or abuse laxatives or diuretics.

It has been estimated that up to 20 percent of high school and college girls are anorexic or bulimic. Of that group, for every one diagnosed, nine more suffer. Of those affected, 15 percent die from malnutrition, organ damage or suicide.

Professionals at the Eating Disorders Clinic, under the direction of Fazel M. Yassin, report they offer a thorough treatment program.

The spokesman added, "These diseases are reaching epidemic proportions. It is important that people know there is help available if someone in their life develops an eating disorder."

Zagari would not disclose the purchase price of the sale.

A REMINDER FROM THE LAW TODAY

In a recent short letter to a prestigious medical journal, the president of Tufts University said that chiropractors, psychotherapists and other health care professionals should cut their numbers in order to prevent overcrowding of the health care field and to ensure that large and established medical schools would not have to cut their size.

If this attitude is representative of what the medical profession feels, it is certainly cause for concern. As Mark V. Pauly points out in a thoughtful Wall Street Journal article, it is people like the chiropractors, psychotherapists and graduates of smaller medical schools who are most likely to offer service in rural areas where many doctors will not go, and whose services create competition which tends to keep the cost of medical care down.

At a time when much of the medical profession is blaming the high cost of medical care on malpractice suits and is seeking (and often getting) legislation which virtually destroys the ordinary citizen's right to bring such suits, it is disturbing to see that the best prescription of all — a little competition — is definitely not what the doctor is ordering.

Belleville Area College Board names Reynolds president

Wayne Reynolds, 34, Belleville, an attorney, was elected as chairman of the Board of Trustees of Belleville Area College on Tuesday night. The eight-county community college district includes the Quad-City area.

REYNOLDS SUCCEEDS as chairman Avery Schermer of Granite City. The lone local resident on the board, Schermer was defeated in the board election Nov. 5 along with Dr. James Vest.

Larry Reinneck of Freeburg and Frances Braswell of Belleville were seated as new members of the board.

Reinneck and Elizabeth Jenner, a board member from Mascoutah, dissented in Reynolds' 4-2 selection by the board. Curt Eckert, re-elected Nov. 5, was out-of-town and did not vote on the chairmanship.

REINNECK AND Braswell campaigned against a 14-cent tax rate limit increase. The rate change was soundly defeated by voters last week and is not expected to be resubmitted in the foreseeable future.

Reinneck nominated Robert Dintelmann of Belleville to serve as board chairman but Dintelmann declined. Dintelmann is a past chairman.

Venice arrests, fines soar higher

By VALERIE EVENEDEN
Staff writer

VENICE — Fines levied by the Third Judicial Circuit Court and returned to the City of Venice took another upswing in October.

A $4,386 check from the office of Circuit Court Clerk Willard Portell, representing fines collected in Venice arrest cases, was the largest amount ever received by the city to date.

POLICE CHIEF Farris Smith said at Tuesday's City Council meeting 183 adults and seven juveniles were arrested last month.

Venice police officers filed 258 charges, including 210 traffic violations and 34 ordinance violations. Fifty-three women were among the 183 adults arrested.

Traffic crossing the city-owned McKinley Bridge also soared upward in October. Tom Fields, bridge manager, reported; 546,342 vehicles used the bridge last month, averaging 17,073 each day.

The daily average increased by 1,043 vehicles compared to October 1984, the manager said.

CITY-OWNED SURPLUS property was the subject of an ordinance enacted by the aldermen. It permits private sale of the property without advertising for competitive bids.

County nixes investigation into sheriff's radio purchase

A Madison County Board committee has decided not to seek an investigation into the purchase of a radio and a siren by the Madison County Sheriff's Department in which money from a confidential investigation fund was used.

County Board member William R. Haine, D-Alton, told fellow members of the board's central services committee he had spoken with Sheriff Emil Toffant before the meeting and Toffant expressed regret over the incident and pledged to bring such matters before the committee in the future.

IN A COMMITTEE meeting this month, Haine had offered a resolution asking that the controversial purchase be investigated by the state's attorney's office. The resolution was held over, pending consultation with Toffant, and Haine withdrew the resolution Nov. 12.

saying it appeared the confidential fund had been used to circumvent the county's normal purchasing procedures. The fund was intended for travel and investigation expenses, not equipment purchases, he said.

Typically, the central services committee reviews all proposed expenditures. The sheriff's department fund, however, has been exempt from County Board review to protect the confidentiality of investigations.

Haine TOLD the committee he was satisfied with his conversation with the sheriff.

"He (Toffant) said he would in all with the committee and follow the purchasing ordinance," Haine said. "He said the only motive was saving money."

are not required by law to obtain prior board approval of purchases, although they have traditionally done so.

"THERE'S NO WAY we can force the man to go back and do anything differently," Haine said.

Haine, however, said, the controversy may have been beneficial in that it highlighted for the sheriff's department and other departments the wisdom of following the purchasing ordinance.

The items were purchased by Toffant in August from former deputy Theodore W. "Ted" Rousseau, who previously had pleaded guilty to a federal bank robbery charge and was awaiting sentencing.

Toffant defended the purchase, saying the items were useful to the department and, at $800, were preferred at about one-third their cost if purchased new.

Police chief gets enough on illegal parkers

GRANITE CITY — The perfect "pesticide" for pesky parking pests is a ticket, and that's exactly what's planned for downtown.

Chalk it up to Police Chief Bill Harris. Since parking meters were recently removed, some merchants complain, persons are parking all day in front of stores.

It's bad for business and the police chief said he's going to put Irv Keuenhoff on the job. Keuenhoff, the police department's downtown parking meter monitor, will now begin chalking tires.

Pass the two-hour limit and you receive a pass to City Hall to pay your parking ticket.

GREG FRANZWA

Something different to be at Longhorn

A jazz band named "Something Different" will have its debut concert for the general public next Monday, November 18, 1985, at the Longhorn Cafeteria, 58 Fenton Plaza, in Ponton.

Bandleader Greg Franzwa, who also introduced his popular 1928 Jazz Band at the Longhorn six years ago, said that Something Different is essentially a "country club" band.

"The group has been playing together for about five years now," he said, "usually at country clubs and for private parties elsewhere. It is structured to prove that dancers really do have a choice — they don't have to put up with a steady diet of commercial 'micky mouse'."

The group consists of Franzwa on trumpet; Patrick Joyce, piano; Joe Byington, vibes; Jay Hungerford, upright bass; and Ralph Smith, guitar.

It will perform jazz standards from the past five decades, including "How High the Moon," "Slow Boat to China," "September in the Rain," "My Funny Valentine," "Thou Swell," and "Creole Love Call."

The two-hour concert will start at 8:30 p.m.

Movies reviewed

Back to the Future (PG) 7.9
A fun mixture of comedy and science fiction which has everything from a mad scientist to a teen-ager who must act as matchmaker for his own parents.

Cocoon (PG-13) 7.8
A fine treatment, by Director Ron Howard, of a subject that will affect all of us — growing old — and what happens when some retirement community residents meet some ogreous aliens. Also includes good performances by an elderly cast with some very familiar faces.

The Gods Must Be Crazy (PG) 7.8
British style slapstick humor and a delightful look at how a simple bushman might look at the "wonders" of modern civilization make this a very funny film.

Kiss of the Spider Woman (R) 7.5
Great acting, especially by William Hurt, but a tough film to sit through. revolves around the relationship between two men sharing a jail cell. Hurt plays a non-political homosexual. His cellmate is a political revolutionary played by Raul Julia.

Jagged Edge (R) 6.8
Glenn Close and Jeff Bridges star in this slowly unfolding psychological thriller about a powerful newspaper editor accused of murdering his wife. Great acting, but the plot gets a little unbelievable.

After Hours (R) 6.3
In this off-beat comedy, a young word processor experiences almost everything that can go wrong for him in the space of one evening. Slow at times.

St. Elmo's Fire (R) 6.3
Sort of a junior version of The Big Chill. Not as good but still entertaining.

European Vacation (R) 6.3
Chevy Chase and his comic family is on the vacation trail again.

Silver Bullet (R) 5.7
Tired werewolf tale from Stephen King which receives plot help by establishing a young boy in a hot rod wheelchair as the main nemesis of the monster.

Pee-wee's Big Adventure (PG) 5.7
If you like the Pee-wee Herman nerd concept, you may enjoy the film. Otherwise, no way.

Commando (R) 4.9
Another film capitalizing on the bulk of Arnold Schwarzenegger. Very violent, but even worse, after several movies the star still can't act.

Rambo, First Blood II (R) 4.5
This violent film has Rambo, the character in the box office smash "First Blood," looking for missing Vietnam veterans.

Q: With two small children, my wife and I are trying to establish a plan for the future. How much money do we need to set aside in a savings account?

A: A good question, however there is no general answer which will fit everyone's situation. For example, if your family's immediate goal is to buy your own home within the next four years, the required down payment will be a major factor in determining the amount which should be deposited in a savings account each month. However, if you aren't planning any major purchases but want to set aside a prudent amount for handling emergencies this amount will also vary from family to family. A few years ago, the "rule of thumb" was the family savings account should be maintained at no less than three months' living costs. However, today many financial planning experts believe it is wise to have four to six months living costs held in reserve. Whatever your individual goals and needs, we will be happy to work with you to establish a savings plan, with the greatest return, secure for you and your family, when you need it.

Granite City BPW to hear program on High Tech Future on Nov. 20

The program for a monthly meeting of the Granite City Business and Professional Women's Organization will focus on High Tech Future and will be at Charlie's Restaurant on Wednesday, Nov. 20. Annellen Smith will speak on the subject and its impact on the Illinois

BPW Federation. She is a past state president and past president of the local organization. She serves on the Women in Transition Task Force for the National Federation of BPW. She is also a member of the State Headquarters Fund of the Illinois Federation and is serving both District XIV and the local BPW group as parliamentary advisor.

The guest speaker was instrumental in getting a computer system established in the Illinois Federation. At present, the membership package is being produced by the computer system and it is planned to have the financial system interfaced with the membership system by Feb. 28.

Becky Slate, president, conducted the board meeting at Ervay's Restaurant. Helene Bischoff reported the bylaws committee has made necessary changes and the document will be presented to the members Wednesday night.

Reservations for the dinner meeting may be made by calling Becky Slate at 452-5391 after 5 p.m. or Pauline Weir at 452-7529.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bargiel

Bargiel-Zezoff

Andrea Marie Zezoff and John David Bargiel were married Sept. 14 at St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church, Madison, in a double ring ceremony by Father Frank Kordek. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Audrey J. Ellis of Madison and of Michael V. Zezoff of Edwardsville. The groom is the son of Mrs. Cynthia Dietz of Wichita Falls, Texas, and of Gerald Bargiel of Madison.

The maid of honor was Cathy Ann Neidhardt and the bridesmaids were Carrie Zezoff, sister of the bride, Cheryl Hammer, a cousin, and Kathy Belcoff and Shari Bogovich. The best man was Leo Tornino Jr. and the groomsmen were Joseph Bargiel, brother of the groom, and David Smith, Charlie Asperger and Ronnie Grzywacz Jr.

Hospice program is chapter topic

Beta Eta Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma, an honorary society for women in education, held a breakfast meeting during the weekend at the Hilton Inn, with 50 members present.

Mary Sue Harper, program chairman, introduced Nancy Kaprielian, public relations director for the Hospice program, who spoke on "The Hospice Concept - Answering a Need."

Designed for the terminally ill, Hospice still promotes the idea of living life as fully as possible right up to the end and also making it meaningful, she said.

Kaprielian noted that Dame Cecily of England established the program in 1467 at St. Christopher's Hospital, with the entire hospital being devoted to the terminally ill. The American program, although adopting many of Dame Cecily's ideas, established it as a home-care program. In that way, it can be adapted to any size village or city.

The Madison County Hospice program started Oct. 1, 1979, and it is the oldest community-based hospice program in Metro East. It has helped other areas, both in Illinois and Missouri, to establish their programs, the chapter was told.

President Diane Pankhouser conducted a business meeting. Resignations were read and accepted from Mary Ann Shaw and Jody Grinter. The Research Committee asked all currently teaching or who have been retired for one year to complete a questionnaire relating to teacher evaluation.

Dr. Jean Hall was congratulated on her appointment as supervisor of the elementary reading program in the Granite City district. Members were asked to check the

QUESTIONNAIRES AVAILABLE

Questionnaires for engagements, weddings and anniversaries to be placed in the Press-Record / Journal are available on request either in person or by writing. Requests should be addressed to Society Editor, Granite City Press-Record / Journal, 1815 Delmar Ave., Granite City, Ill. 62040.

There is no charge for engagement and wedding stories and photos. Wedding questionnaires, accompanied by photos, should be returned to the newspaper quickly after the wedding. Notifying the wedding photographer in advance or the need of a photo for the newspaper is suggested.

Questions concerning engagements and weddings for the newspaper can be answered by calling the Society Editor at 876-2000 between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

In general, black and white photos reproduce better than color photos and are preferred for publication. However, the quality of the photo submitted determines how well the reproduction will be.

The newspaper is not responsible for lost or damaged photos. All photographs should be picked up soon after they are published.

GC Jr. Service Club plans holiday project

Thanksgiving baskets are being prepared by the Granite City Junior Service Club using items donated at the October meeting. Donna Polivick, president, has announced.

The baskets will be delivered to needy families during the first part of the week preceding the holiday.

Members met at Nameoki United Methodist Church and also discussed the annual "Breakfast With Santa."

Elaine Rains gave a progress report on the breakfast and Gail Mlofsky and Joyce Curran distributed tickets for the event. Mary Holloway and Rene Tanase said donations are being received from local business places.

All the gifts for the children who attend the breakfast were wrapped during the meeting.

Sarah Repp will host the November dinner and will serve a traditional Thanksgiving meal. Members are to bring covered dishes.

Hostesses for the evening were Sarah Repp, Rene Tanase and Mary Holloway. Joyce Curran provided a homemade article.

The next meeting will be Monday, Nov. 18, at the church at 6:30 p.m.

'Malpractice suits still threaten medical care'

Additional legislation is needed to stem the flood of multi-million-dollar medical malpractice judgments which threaten quality health care in Illinois, says Dr. Morgan M. Meyer, president of the Illinois State Medical Society (ISMS).

Meyer, a specialist in internal medicine from Lombard in St. Edwardsville Nov. 12 to address members of the Madison County Medical Society. He spoke with reporters before the meeting.

MEYER SAID recent reform legislation would help stem soaring increases in malpractice insurance rates in Illinois, but said awards for non-economic damages ("pain and suffering") need to be limited.

The medical society was a key proponent of the reform legislation signed into law earlier this year by Gov. James R. Thompson, but the General Assembly declined to enact a $250,000 limit on pain and suffering damages which the society also sought.

Meyer said the society will continue to urge legislators to "cap" such damages.

THE PACKAGE approved by the legislature provides, among other things, for review of malpractice lawsuits by a panel comprised of a judge, a lawyer and a physician. If such a panel decides a complaint has no merit, the patient still may sue but becomes liable for defense costs should the lawsuit fail.

Meyer said malpractice insurance is "the fastest growing cost of medical care."

"It's the public that's paying for this," he said.

In Illinois and nationally, patients receive an average 28 cents on the dollar of malpractice awards, with the rest going for attorney's fees and court costs, Meyer contended.

OF ALL MEDICAL malpractice lawsuits, 80 percent result in no award for the patient, according to Meyer. Even those cases, however, cost an average of $6,000 to $8,000 to defend, he said.

Malpractice insurance rates in Illinois are the nation's fourth-highest, Meyer said.

Because of the situation, high-risk surgical procedures which might have been performed in this area are being performed in Missouri, which has a better malpractice climate, he said, the area is also losing neurosurgeons to Missouri.

INSURANCE PREMIUMS in Indiana, which has "capped" awards for 10 years, are one-fourth those in Illinois, according to Meyer.

Meyer, on the annual president's tour of county medical societies, said he also is stressing the need for physicians to protect rights of patients to receive quality care and choose among providers.

Health maintenance organizations (HMOs) and preferred provider organizations (PPOs) "have little to do with the quality of care," he said Meyer.

He said some organizations want hospitals and physicians to provide care at discount rates, but spend the money saved on marketing and advertising.

"THAT DOESN'T contribute an iota to patient care," he said.

PTOs were authorized in Illinois by recent legislation. The law "doesn't give the patient the right to choose," Meyer said.

He called for legislation which would require an organization to reimburse a patient for at least 80 percent of costs when a patient chooses a doctor or hospital not associated with the program.

Low-interest home loans offered by GC bank

First Granite City National Bank, 1960 Edison Ave., will participate in the largest home loan program in the history of Illinois.

The plan was announced by Gov. James R. Thompson Thursday when he unveiled a $275 million low-interest mortgage program through Build Illinois for first-time, lower-income home buyers.

The Build Illinois Low-Interest Mortgage Program, sponsored by the Illinois Housing Development Authority (IHDA), offers 30-year, fixed-rate financing to qualified home buyers at an interest rate of 9.8 percent, nearly 3.5 percent lower than current fixed-rate mortgages.

Not only is this the biggest mortgage program the state has ever directed, but it also contains several other features that make it unique and important," the governor said.

The $1 billion in housing funds from Build Illinois. It's a mortgage program that gives lower-income families the chance at owning a home the first time. It offers the lowest interest rate of any Illinois mortgage program.

Thompson said up to 6,000 mortgages will be financed for single-family homes, with 1,200 loans financing construction of new homes.

"Making home ownership a reality for as many people as possible in Illinois goes beyond giving 6,000 families a chance to own a home the first time. It provides jobs for others and makes a significant contribution to the state's economy," Thompson said.

"With this program alone, new housing starts will produce more than 2,000 jobs, provide $1.7 million in new local property taxes and stimulate millions of rollover dollars in related industries."

"Although Build Illinois is aimed at rebuilding the Illinois infrastructure, an affordable and plentiful housing stock also must be available."

"IHDA has helped more than 11,000 families find homes for the first time and helped finance the construction of a quarter of all multi-family dwellings built in Illinois from 1960 to 1980."

The new mortgage program is available to prospective home buyers who meet certain guidelines, which include:

1. Home buyers must be first-time buyers, if category defined as a person who has not owned a residence for the past three years.

2. The annual household income is limited to $25,000.

3. Applications must be made through participating lending institutions throughout Illinois.

4. All funds will be distributed on a first-come, first-served basis through Dec. 3.

5. Price limits are set on homes purchased under the program. In Chicago, the price ceiling is $120,500 for a new home and $100,000 for an existing home. The limits in the rest of Illinois are $77,220 for a new home and $56,770 for an existing structure.

A second phase of the program, with higher qualifying income levels will be announced in early January.

(Truman W. May, farm adviser of Madison County from 1929 to 1986, managed farms in Illinois and Missouri for 10 years after retirement, with a total of 70 years of active interest and experience in agriculture. He has just given this talk to the Land of Goshen Historical Society.)

Average yields per acre in Madison County in 1980 were 31 bushels of corn and 16 bushels of soybeans. These yields now would be considered crop failures.

With yields of 100-plus bushels of corn and 60-plus bushels of wheat commonplace, soybean yields also have increased, from a 15-20 bushels average to 35 to 40 bushels.

CHIEF REASONS for these increases are improved varieties, especially the development of hybrid corn and the use of fertilizers and chemicals plus better machinery and other improved methods.

Acres of grain sorghum (milo) has increased in recent years.

Production of alfalfa hay - once up to 15,000 acres, with Madison County one of the leading counties in Illinois in acreage - has decreased, mainly due to the great decrease in dairy cattle. Red clover for hay and alfalfa for soil improvement have also greatly decreased.

CORN, SOYBEANS and wheat are the chief crops. Oats have almost disappeared. Some winter oats and winter barley were grown in the 1930s and '40s, but practically none now.

The chief fertilizers applied contain nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium. Limestone is applied to supply calcium. Nitrogen is applied in fertilizers instead of turning under clover, as formerly done.

Many farmers follow soil conservation methods, but erosion is still a serious problem. There is a definite trend to less tillage, especially plowing, to keep the soil in place.

A "Project Demonstration Area," one of three in Illinois, established at Edwardsville in 1933 by the U.S. Conservation Service stimulated interest in soil conservation, with a CCC (Civilian Conservation Corps) camp supplying equipment to help build soil-saving structures, waterways, terraces, farm ponds and other methods of controlling erosion.

THE CHANGE to mechanical power from the use of horses and mules occurred mainly in the 1930s. We held several field demonstrations on how to hitch horses and mules to obtain the most power in 1931.

Then, as mechanical power became common, we held many demonstrations of farm machinery, using tractors, tillage, planting, harvesting, spraying and other equipment. This new equipment made farm operations much more expensive. The decrease in horses and mules decreased production of feed, especially oats.

The greatest change in Madison County agriculture has been the shift from dairying to grain farming. In 1930, 2,400 farmers were producing and shipping milk and also some butter and cream.

MADISON COUNTY was the largest milk-producing county of the 75 Illinois and Missouri counties supplying milk to the St. Louis area. Now, there are only about 90 dairy farms in our county.

In the 35-year period of 1955-59, a total of 550 county farmers quit dairying, due largely to the Grade A requirements adopted by the city of St. Louis, including the building and use of "milk-houses" and other equipment and methods of producing and handling milk to insure sanitation.

The decrease in dairy farms does not mean a corresponding decrease in the amount of milk produced. On the average, the size of a herd has increased from 10 cows to 30, and the average production per cow has risen from 3,000 or 4,000 pounds of milk per year to 12,000 or 14,000 pounds.

THE INCREASE PER COW is due to several factors, including the feeding of better rations, higher in protein; the culling of lower-producing cows; and the use of individual cow production records, such as Dairy Herd Improvement Association testing; artificial breeding from pedigreed sires; and disease control.

There has been great improvement in the quality of milk since the Grade A ordinance was adopted. Cows were formerly milked into open pails in areas exposed to contamination.

The milk was poured into milk cans to await shipment

Gridders honored at banquet

By GREGG OCHOA
Executive Sports Editor

GRANITE CITY. There was humor, sincerity and a little bit of emotion expressed Thursday night at the annual awards banquet honoring Granite City's football team.

The banquet, sponsored by the Granite City Boosters Club, was the first of three held in the high school cafeteria to recognize athletes and cheerleaders who participated in the fall sports season.

Football players were given letters and numerical awards. It was a successful season for the Warriors, who won three of their final four games and finished at 4-4.

For Ron Yates, the varsity head coach, it was a chance to say some final words to his senior players. Yates has watched this same group of youngsters since they were wide-eyed sophomores and he was their 10th grade coach.

"It's not often that a coach gets the opportunity to follow the same group of young men through their high school careers," Yates said. "I feel fortunate."

"I won't say we haven't had our problems, but I can say I feel very close to this group of young men." Yates praised his team, especially members of the offensive line (Kip Simpson, Tracey McElroy, Steve Novich, Dan Lienemann, Joe Boyd and tight end Chris Moad). All received some mention on the All-Southwestern Conference team.

Granite City was second only to East St. Louis in total number of players listed on the team, with 18. Voting was done by opposing coaches in the SWC. Coaches were not allowed to vote for their own players.

As a team, the Warriors were the only Metro East area school to statistically place in the top 10 in total offense but not end up with a winning record.

Granite City ranked ninth, averaging 17.7 points per game. The Warriors rushed for 1,467 yards and passed for another 645 yards.

Senior Ron Owens, the blocking back, was named the team's most valuable offensive player. The award was a unanimous choice of the coaching staff.

"Ronnie opened up the holes for our other backs and they surely appreciated it," Yates said. "He worked hard all of the time. If he doesn't block, our offense goes nowhere."

Most valuable defensive player went to senior linebacker Tom Schnefke. After battling back from a back injury, Schnefke recorded 79 total tackles and averaged 13 hits per game.

"Tom was our leader on defense, totalling the most points when we added up the number of solo tackles, assists and first hits, the coach said."

Three other awards were given out: Cory Burton was named the recipient of the Chris Marcovsky Award, given to the outstanding freshman football player; Kip Simpson, a quad-captain this year, was given the John Tarpo Award for the outstanding lineman; Tarpo, a GCHS graduate, went to the University of Missouri and played in the Sugar Bowl for the Tigers in 1942.

The final honor, the Keith Lucas Award, was given to Pat Griffith. The award, in memory of the former Granite Cityan killed during military action Oct. 25, 1983, in Grenada, is given to a student-athlete who shows leadership and citizenship qualities.

High School Principal Gilbert Walmsley, showing some emotion as he read the inscription on the plaque, announced the winner. Lucas' father, Stanley, and Superintendent of Schools Max Redmond presented the award. The honor also includes a monetary award.

Awards were also given the freshman football team, which finished at 2-5 and the sophomore team that was 4-4 on the season.

Park District honors baseball, tennis champions at banquet

GRANITE CITY — Trophy winners from the Granite City Park District's baseball season were honored at the district's annual Sports Awards Banquet Thursday night.

The banquet, held at the Granite City Township Hall, featured Granite City native Dal Maxvill, the general manager of the 1985 National League Champion St. Louis Baseball Cardinals, as guest speaker.

Also honored were winners in the park district's tennis tournament held in August.

Receiving the park district's highest award, the Appreciation Award, were the Granite City Jaycees.

"They are especially interested in working with young people in the area and have spent endless dollars in helping groups and sponsoring teams," said Park Board President George Sykes, the toastmaster of the event.

The Jaycees have sponsored baseball, softball and soccer teams, and have been the main supporter of the high school hockey team. They hold a kite-flying contest each spring, prepare and distribute shopping baskets to the needy at Thanksgiving and visit local hospitals on Christmas Eve.

Larry Beyer and Dan Fricke accepted the award for the Jaycees. There were five recipients of service awards from the district for service in coaching and managing. Greg Wozniak, Dave Thomas, Jim DeMoulin, Randy Higgins and Roger Downs received plaques.

Wozniak has been a manager for six years and has served on the Baseball Rules and Protest Committee.

Thomas has also managed six years in the Juvenile Division and started back this year with the Eagles Atom T-Ball team.

DeMoulin has been involved in the Men's Softball and Basketball programs for more than 10 years.

Higgins has been involved in the softball and volleyball programs for more than five years and came forward this year to manage a group of players on the baseball playing list, giving them an opportunity to play when they otherwise would not have.

Downs has managed softball and volleyball teams for the past six years and has played in the park programs for 15 years.

Tennis awards went to: Mike Barnes, first place, Mens Singles; Melissa Croak and Dina Lombardi, second place, Womens Doubles; Ralph Karblan, first place, Boys 12 & Under Singles; Richard Harmon and Tobe Suarez, first place, Boys 14 & Under Doubles; Jeff Stephens and Ralph Karblan, second place, Boys 14 & Under Doubles; Ben Sanders, first place, Boys 16 & Under Singles.

Tales from the darkside: Missed rides, pickpockets

By AL BARNES
Staff writer

Funny things can happen to a sports reporter on trips covering the various teams he has been assigned to write on.

My first real odd happening took place when I was a sophomore in high school down in Louisville, Ky. I was a stringer for the Courier-Journal, Kentucky's most prestigious daily. It was the spring of the year and the high school sports editor for the C-J sent me out to cover a high school baseball game at one of the public parks.

I was to telephone the game in the paper; but, who is me, I found that there wasn't a phone at the park. What to do?

Then, I remembered that the coach of the DuPont Manual High team (which was my school) lived in my neighborhood, which was on the other side of town. But in getting to our homes, we had to drive right by the newspaper office.

So, I asked him to take me by the office so I could turn in my report of the game.

He agreed, but unfortunately for me, he completely forgot to wait for me and I ended up having to walk about 20 blocks to my home!

There were other crazy happenings, too, such as missed train and bus connections, but none were as bizarre as what happened to me as I travelled with the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville tennis team that won the Division II national championships in San Diego in 1978.

On that great team of Cougars were Granite City's Bill Ruskic, plus Arjun Fernando and Juan Farrow.

We had flown to California for the tournament and were looking forward to a happy trip back to Illinois for celebrating when we pulled up to the San Diego airport. But when we reached the check-in counter, the plane we were due to board had been stricken with engine trouble and we had to scramble to another line so we could reach Los Angeles in time to catch our plane to St. Louis.

At any rate, as we lined up, shoving and so forth to get our tickets on the substitute plane to L.A., it happened: My billfold was stolen from my back pocket.

I didn't realize what had happened to me until our plane was high over the mountains and I reached into my back pocket to get a bill to pay for a pre-dinner market. I was out about $300 and all my credit cards.

No billfold. I was out about $300 and all my credit cards.

But the story had a relatively good ending.

About two weeks later, I received a package from San Diego containing my billfold, minus my $300, but with all my important papers and credit cards. Plus a little note from the pickpocket.

He wrote, "Sorry, fellow, but let this be a lesson to you. If you have a wife, make her be sure to sew buttons on your back pants pockets."

Some fun, huh?
